

Born on June 14th 1969, in West Germany, Stefanie Maria Graf, known as Steffi, is a tennis legend whose achievements and graceful play on the court have left an enduring legacy in the world of sports.

Graf burst onto the international tennis scene in the mid-1980s, capturing the hearts of fans with her powerful groundstrokes, speed, and unmatched competitiveness.

At just 17, she achieved the remarkable feat of winning all four Grand Slam titles in a single calendar year, a feat dubbed the "Golden Slam" in 1988.

Her dominance on both clay and grass courts solidified her status as one of the greatest tennis players in history.

Known for her athleticism and relentless work ethic, Graf's signature forehand and strategic prowess propelled her to 22 Grand Slam singles titles, a record that stood for more than two decades.

Her achievements include Olympic gold in 1988 and numerous victories in prestigious tournaments such as Wimbledon and the US Open.

Off the court, Graf always showed great sportsmanship, grace, and humility.

Her Tennis shoes are proudly displayed on the wall at Carmarthen Athletic Rugby Club.
